Virginia Governor Plans Early Move To Reopen Schools

Norfolk Declares Emergency, Asks State Take Action

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. said Tuesday he hopes to move within the next few days to reopen Virginia's integration-closed schools.

His forecast to a news conference coincided with a request from the City Council of Norfolk—where six of the nine affected schools are located—that he reopen and operate the schools under the police power of the state.

The Norfolk council acted under terms of a state law requiring the governor to take such action on behalf of the State Legislature if the governing body of a locality declares the existence of an emergency and requests him to reopen closed schools on a segregated basis.

No Hint As To Plans

Almond declined comment on the Norfolk development nor was there any word from his office if this was what he had in mind when he said he hoped to unveil a reopening plan within the next few days. There had been some speculation he might be considering trying to reopen the six junior and senior high schools, whose closure idled 10,000 pupils in the port city, by suspending the operation of only the one or two classes affected by the integration order in each school.

But the governor, who opened his Thursday news conference with an angry attack on the Supreme Court opinion of Monday in the Little Rock case, indicated he felt the state couldn't devise any segregated school plan that the court would accept.

Court Opinion Lambasted

To disclose any plan in advance, he said, would subject it to immediate attack by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People on "the very friendly ground" of the federal courts.

Almond, reading a prepared statement, said of the high court opinion which laid down the ground rules on its concept of compliance with the desegregation decree:

"It indicts and insults every state legislator, every state judicial officer, and every governor whose convictions relating to oath 'to support this constitution' differ from the court's engraftment upon Article 6 of the Constitution."

"I speak only as the governor of my state. I shall continue to defend the constitution of my country."

Missing Plane Debris Found

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—Searchers Tuesday night found the nose cone and other pieces of the wreckage of a Navy "submarine hunter" plane which disappeared with 10 men aboard on a flight over the Florida Straits late Monday.

Officials said there were no survivors or bodies spotted. The wreckage was found 22 miles north of Key West. Navy crash boats and minesweepers rushed to the scene with detection equipment in hopes of locating the rest of the plane wreckage.

The pieces of the wreckage found so far were in eight fathoms of water.

The missing plane, a twin-engine P2V, had been scheduled to return from its check flight at 7:30 p.m. e.d.t. Monday. It last was heard from three hours earlier, at which time it had fuel for about five-and-a-half hours flight, the Navy said.

U.S. Confirms Chiang Planes Use Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense authorities confirmed Tuesday that Chinese Nationalist Air Force planes are equipped with U.S. Sidewinder guided missiles. They said this came under a modernization program begun months ago.

A few hours earlier Secretary of State Dulles said at his news conference that the Sidewinders have been turned over to the Chinese Nationalists. But Dulles emphasized that the missile was "nothing that was just injected into the situation."

He said it was part of an effort on the part of the United States to improve the training and equipment of Chinese Nationalist warplanes.

The Chinese Communists have complained bitterly that the United States was showing bad faith in equipping the Nationalist planes with Sidewinders at the time of U.S.-Red China negotiations on a cease-fire at Warsaw.

U.S. defense officials call the Sidewinder basically a defensive weapon. Named for a rattlesnake, it has a warhead of conventional explosives and seeks out its target in the air by means of a homing device actuated by heat—such as the heat of a jet engine.

Three-Judge Panel

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Judge M. C. Mathias of the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals said Tuesday he will sit with Judges Harvey M. Johnson and Joseph W. Woodrough next Monday in a hearing for an injunction to stop the Little Rock private school plan.

Druggists Turn Nostalgic In Sizing Themselves Up

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The nation's druggists sized themselves up boldly Tuesday and, with nostalgia in their hearts but realism on their tongue, concluded:

Not many of them could make a go of it just being druggists. True, here and there a man holds out against the revolution which has removed homely charm from the drugstore and put in its place practically everything from garden tools to glockenspiel.

This man is unwaveringly loyal to the old, old tradition of the apothecary. He is one in spirit with the cloistered dispenser of drugs in Shakespeare's day. Yet even the occasional exception to the new status and function of the drugstore is generally obliged to go in for the sale of cosmetics at least.

All this and more America's retail druggists, in Philadelphia for their national convention, saw as they held up the mirror to their changed nature.

Reds Offered Concessions By Secretary

Would Trim Chiang Strength On Isles If Shooting Halted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles Tuesday heralded a possible major shift in America's China policy. He offered to try trimming Nationalist military strength in the Formosa Strait offshore islands if the Communists quit shooting.

Dulles told his news conference Chiang Kai-shek was foolish to commit one-third of his Nationalist armed forces to Quemoy and the other offshore islands now being pounded by Red artillery. But Dulles conceded this government acquiesced.

The secretary dashed cold water on Chiang's oft-repeated determination to wrest the China mainland from the Communists. Dulles said Chiang's return "is a highly hypothetical matter."

"I don't think that just by their own steam they are going to get there," the secretary said, adding under questioning that the United States has "no commitment of any kind to aid in that."

Any Cease-Fire Reciprocal

The existence of Nationalist China on Formosa, Dulles said, could be important if an anti-Communist revolution developed on the mainland. Chiang could then offer help, he said, but it is "hypothetical and problematical" whether Chiang would be asked to head an anti-Communist revolutionary regime.

This was the first time any high level U.S. official ever publicly cast doubt on hopes of Chiang's return to the mainland from which he was driven nine years ago by the Communists.

Dulles even had a word to say on behalf of the Chinese Communists, saying any Formosa Strait cease-fire would have to be reciprocal on Chiang's part.

"It would be obviously quite impractical and quite wrong to ask the Chinese Communists to abandon use of force if they were being attacked by the Chinese Nationalists," he said.

Dulles' words were not strong enough to be taken as U.S. acceptance of two Chinas, or even of a policy shift already decided upon. But his conciliatory approach indicated movement toward a possible basis for negotiation at U.S.-Red China ambassadorial talks in Warsaw.

Reds Word Not Enough

Dulles' offer was made in these words:

"If there were a cease-fire in the area which seemed to be reasonably dependable, I think it would be foolish to keep these large (Nationalist) forces on these islands."

"We thought that it was rather foolish to put them there and, as I say, if there were a cease-fire it would be our judgment, military judgment even, that it would not be wise or prudent to keep them there."

Dulles said something must be done to make any cease-fire dependable. The Communists' word is not enough since they break it at will, he said. He disclosed he already has tentatively discussed with 15 or 20 foreign ministers, attending the United Nations General Assembly, some form of sanctions or other "unpleasant consequences in case the Communists break their promises."

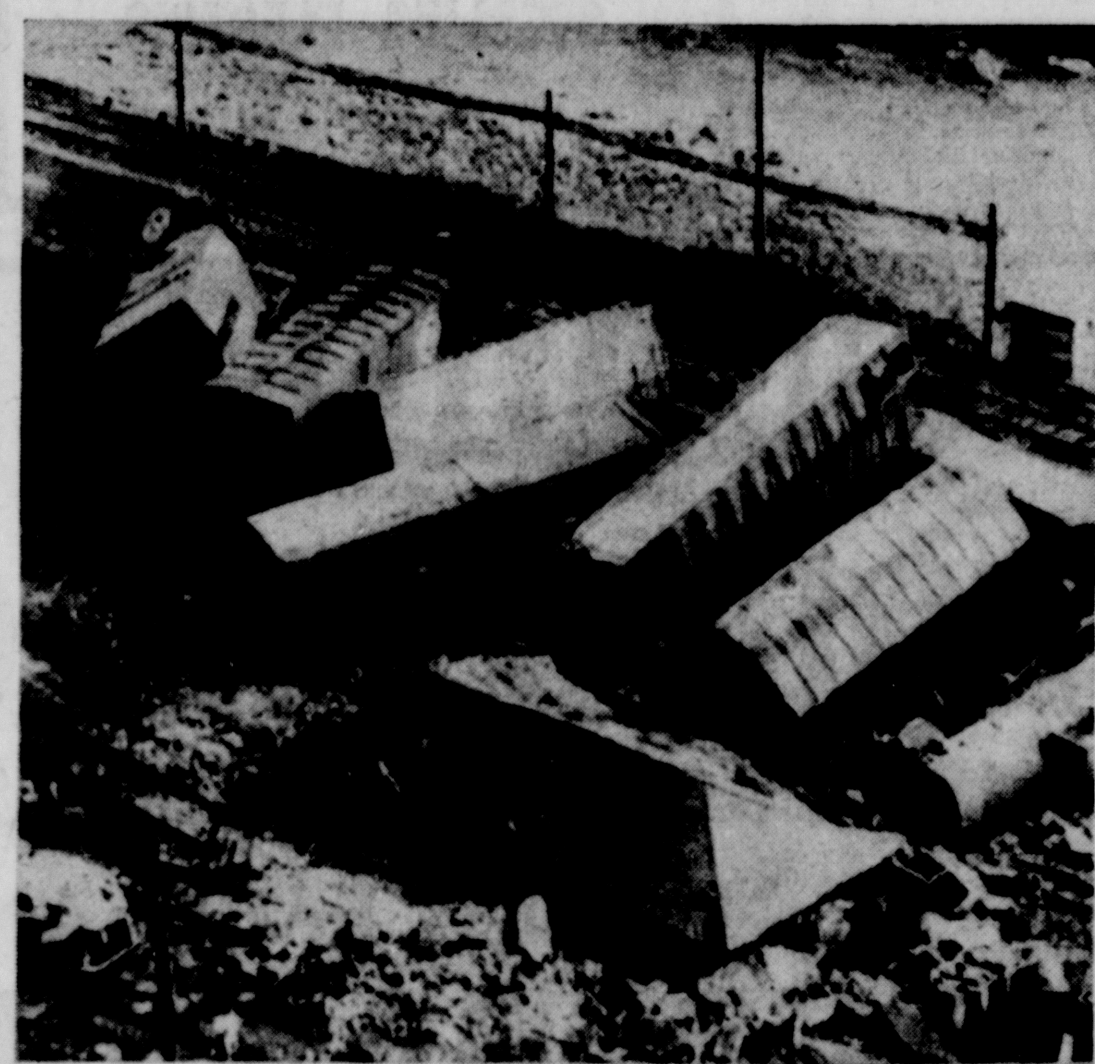

Bert Corgan, of Denver, executive committeeman, suggested that a certain mystique once set a druggist apart. But now he feels that he is running a variety or general store, a slightly off-beat supermarket, with strip lighting, sheep music serenades and fresh nuts for sale in the aisle.

Tom Sharp, of Nashville, Tenn., chimed in:

"The druggist has to supply whatever his customers demand and what they want in a drugstore now seems to have no limit. That's why we have to stay open up to 17 or 18 hours a day, sell women's stockings, flashlight batteries, grass seed, tin pans, canned soup, cameras, school supplies, throw rugs, folding chairs, toys, canvas bags and—but why go on?"

"Prescription prices would be prohibitive if the druggist had to depend today on prescription volume alone."

Guards Press Search Of 'Rock' For Prisoner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Fifty heavily armed guards poked warily into caves and behind rocks along the shores of Alcatraz Prison Tuesday in search for a convict who was believed to be either hiding out on the island bastion or dead.

Prison officials were confident that Aaron Walter Burgett, 28, a rangy gunman from St. Louis, Mo., failed in his attempt to flee "the rock" with another convict after overpowering a guard at knifepoint Monday afternoon.

The second convict, Clyde Johnson, 40, a Memphis, Tenn., bank robber, was caught several hours later shivering waist deep in the cold waters of San Francisco Bay a few feet from the Alcatraz shore.

Guards armed with carbines and revolvers launched an all-out search for Burgett as fog closed in on the "escape-proof" prison.

Johnson said a getaway launch was waiting for them, but this was discounted by prison officials. However, three Coast Guard cutters and a helicopter circled the island to prevent an escape by boat. "We've got to assume he's still on the island, until we get some definite proof otherwise," Warden Paul J. Madigan said.

He said there was little chance that Burgett could swim the mile and one-half of tide-ripped bay waters to shore, where squads of San Francisco police kept watch. FBI agents hastened to the island to investigate but were not actively searching.

Ike Won't Attend Any Series Games

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House said Tuesday that President Eisenhower would not attend any World Series games this year.

Eisenhower attended one series game in 1956.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the pressure of business here caused the President to decide to pass up the national classic opening in Milwaukee Wednesday.

National Science Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Tuesday urged professional industrial, labor and civic groups to join with high schools in observing National Science Month in October.

U.S. Landing Ships, Guns, Planes Help To Bolster Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The United States is sending huge new landing ships and C19 Flying Boxcars for a big Chinese Nationalist supply push to break the Red blockade of Quemoy.

A U. S. military spokesman said Tuesday the first Flying Boxcars are due this week.

One of the new LSDs (Landing Ships, Dock) which carry eight smaller landing craft in their holds, already is in Formosa and has made a run to Quemoy with big howitzers. The spokesman did not say when the other ships are due.

Marines supervised the unloading of the guns on Quemoy, turned them over to the Nationalists and returned to Formosa, the spokesman said.

The LSDs can carry six times the cargo of LSTs (Landing Ship, Tank) now used by the Nationalists. Their sterns open up to flood their holds and float the smaller vessels. These small craft can carry 40 to 60 tons of cargo each.

The ships and planes will be manned by Nationalists. But the LSD now in use is run by Americans. This ship has not, however, sailed past the three-mile water limit off Quemoy, the U.S. spokesman said.

The U.S. hope is that with the aid of the Flying Boxcars and LSDs the Nationalists can start pushing through the 350-ton daily minimum of supplies the Quemoy garrisons need to maintain a strong defense.

Successful resupplying of Quemoy also is essential to the U.S. hand in negotiations with the Red Chinese in Warsaw.

Chrysler Says Contract Talks Have Hit Snag

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther Tuesday arrived at what he called "a meeting of the minds" with Chrysler Corp. in an all-night bargaining session. But later Chrysler officials said they felt he was overly optimistic.

After a shave, he turned up in an hour to take over the union's negotiations with General Motors which faces a strike of its 250,000 UAW members at 10 a.m. Thursday if there is no settlement.

Reuther worked with the negotiators during a two-hour morning session at General Motors, then went to bed at a downtown hotel. Tuesday after noon Chrysler Vice President John D. Leary came out of the first Chrysler bargaining session after Reuther's exit and said:

"We've run into some difficulty. We lost ground if anything. These union negotiators don't seem to be in a position to settle this matter."

Asked if he meant the UAW team needed Reuther to make progress, Leary said: "I don't know who they need."

In an obvious reference to Reuther's "meeting of the minds" statement, Leary said, "We're not as close to a settlement as some people would have you think."

Both sides said they were in basic agreement on most economic matters.

Envoys Confer

WARSAW (AP)—The U.S. and Red China ambassadors held a 2 hour 48 minute negotiating session Tuesday on easing tensions in Formosa Strait.

Neither U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam nor Red Chinese Envoy Wang Ping-nan would comment on the meeting except to say they would get together again Saturday.

'Can't Quit,' Corporation Head Says

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Little Rock's high schools were still closed Tuesday but the leader of the group that sought to operate them on a private basis said new plans are being drawn to continue the fight for segregation.

"We are far from finished," said Dr. T. J. Rane, president of the Little Rock Private School Corporation. "We can't quit."

Rane gave no indication of the nature of the plan.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus said "a way will be found" to reopen the schools on a segregated basis. He urged the people to stand firm after federal judges Monday blocked the private school operation with a temporary restraining order.

A legal authority close to Faubus said, however:

"We are at the end of the line."

Rane officially stated Tuesday that the schools would not open Monday, before the federal judges acted in Omaha, he set Tuesday as the opening date.

'Closed' Signs Posted

Shortly afterward, Rane ordered signs posted on the grounds of the four high schools.

"This school closed by order of the federal government," they read.

A painter's error made the sign at Central High read "government" instead of "government."

A brief scuffle took place between an armed guard at Hall High and employees of the private corporation posting the sign. The guard, William Mansfield, pulled a pistol from his holster, but finally agreed to let the sign go up. Pupils and their parents were telephoning the schools asking if they would be open.

No teachers appeared. They were warned by their attorneys not to work with the private corporation.

Principals answered the telephones and told the callers there would be no school.

Governor, NAACP Blamed

Rane met newsmen in the office of the principal of Central High, scene of the riots last year, and the focal point in the harsh situation now.

He looked tired and angry. He read a statement, on a single sheet of paper, charging the federal government and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People with responsibility for closing the schools.

Actually, they were closed Sept. 12 by proclamation of the governor.

Outside the building, a few pupils appeared.

Rain had begun to fall. They stood, looking at the building and speculating whether classes would start.

"I think it's terrible. We just want to go to school," a girl said. They began to drift away. Soon the street was deserted again.

Princess Tours Fair

BRUSSELS (AP)—Princess Margaret toured the World's Fair in pouring rain Tuesday and learned with surprise that the British invented the mailbox. Originally scheduled to stay until Thursday, she decided Tuesday to extend her visit until Friday. She plans a visit at the palace of Belgium's bachelor King Baudouin.

Eisenhower gave him a recess appointment effective Nov. 1. Since the job is subject to Senate confirmation, a formal nomination will go to Congress when it reconvenes in January.

Quesada will get a $1,500-a-year salary increase, to $22,500.

In a statement announcing the appointment Eisenhower deplored a provision in the law that is forcing Quesada to resign his commission as a lieutenant general on the retired list of the regular Air Force before he takes over.

Eisenhower asked for the agency's reaction last June 13 after a series of airplane collisions. The Senate already was holding hearings on air traffic control and the wisdom of overhauling the civilian aviation agencies.

Quesada now heads the Airways Modernization Board.

View Suspension Just Propaganda Stunt Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has resumed its nuclear weapons tests with at least two new blasts, the Atomic Energy Commission said Tuesday night.

The State Department promptly termed the resumption a confirmation of U.S. contentions that Russia's test suspension announcement of last March 31 was a propaganda stunt.

Nevertheless, the department said the United States will go ahead with its plans to suspend U.S. nuclear tests Oct. 31 unless Russia holds further nuclear explosions after that date.

The State Department, recalling Russia's announcement of last spring that it was discontinuing further testing, said in a statement:

"It was suspected at the time that the Soviet announcement was primarily a propaganda exercise and that there was no real intention to suspend testing. This now seems to be confirmed by the event."

Moderate To High Yield

The AEC indicated the weapons were of substantial size. It said two detonations were detected and added:

"Both took place north of the Arctic Circle and were of moderate to high yield."

The development occurred after months of diplomatic jockeying over proposals for an international agreement to outlaw atomic and hydrogen weapons tests.

Six months ago, after winding up an extensive test series, the Russians announced they were suspending tests, but they left the way open for a resumption if the United States and Britain did not follow suit.

The Western atomic powers balked at the time, on grounds that there had been no agreement on an effective detection system to make sure no one cheated.

Then on Aug. 22, this country and Britain said they would halt their tests for at least a year, starting on Oct. 31, provided the Russians would enter negotiations then on an international control network. Russia agreed to attend the meetings.

Soviets Objected To Terms

Both countries, however, said they intended first to complete tests they had scheduled.

Moscow has objected to the terms the Western atomic powers laid down. On Sept. 18, Moscow radio accused them of "simply forcing the Soviet Union to take back its word" on its own test ban.

The State Department noted that, on U.S. initiative, talks are scheduled to begin at Geneva on Oct. 31 to try devising a means of reaching agreement on a nuclear test suspension under adequate safeguards.

The United States expects these negotiations to begin on schedule, the department said.

Balloon Flight Reset Today

CROSBY, Minn. (AP)—The Air Force will send a young lieutenant into the stratosphere beneath a huge plastic balloon at dawn Wednesday, weather permitting. The Manhigh III flight will carry 1st Lt. Clifton McClure, a 25-year-old jet pilot from Anderson, S.C., to altitudes exceeding 100,000 feet and perhaps to a new manned balloon altitude record.

McClure will be the subject for a battery of Air Force scientists seeking the answer to problems man will face in a manned satellite.

The ascent was scheduled for Tuesday but was postponed when high winds made the attempt too hazardous.

McClure will be enclosed in a nine-foot cylinder-shaped capsule jammed with electronic and photographic recording instruments. He will be tested for physical and psychological reactions to the stress and strain of isolated space flight. He will remain in the sky more than 24 hours. The capsule will be slung beneath the 280-foot-long balloon by a big cargo parachute, which can be released either from the ground or from inside the capsule in case of emergency.

Dag Tells U.N. Mideast Troop Withdrawal Set

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld told the U.N. Tuesday he had conditional promises of an early withdrawal of U.S. and British troops from Lebanon and Jordan.

But he declared it was too early to predict if the Arab nations would be successful in living together as good neighbors, as they had promised.

He indicated also that if serious difficulties arose, the Middle East situation may again be brought to the U.N. as a threat to world peace.

Hammarskjöld made the comments in his initial report to the 81-nation General Assembly on arrangements he had made to safeguard peace in Lebanon and Jordan, and to facilitate an early troop withdrawal.

The secretary general said Lebanon and the United States hope to see the complete withdrawal of U.S. forces by the end of October, provided the security situation in Lebanon continues to improve.

He added that Britain and Jordan will announce Wednesday a decision to begin withdrawal in October, and that it will be completed as quickly as the situation in the area permits.

The report set off immediate charges by Jordan in the assembly that President Nasser's United Arab Republic is still acting in a hostile manner toward King Hussein's regime.

Sudanese Foreign Minister Mohammed Ahmed Mahgoub declared that until the decision to withdraw troops is made final he regarded the report as incomplete. He announced he reserved the right to ask for full-scale debate on it.

Hammarskjöld said implementation of the Arab good neighbor resolution passed by the emergency session of the General Assembly in August "is still at an early stage and it is therefore premature to pass judgment on the degree of success with which it may meet."

Wrong Spelling To Tune Of $10

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—"Senior," the man said to the judge as he approached the bench.

"I was an interpreter for the United Nations. I speak many languages."

Then Phillip M. Gatewood, 58, charged with being drunk, proceeded to spell some foreign words that mean "yes" — the Spanish "si," the French "oui," and the German "ja."

Except that he spelled them "ei," "wie," and "ya."

"How do you spell $10?" asked Judge Charles Walter.

"That's your fine."

The magazine was started by A&P 21 years ago.

Demo Charge Of 'Sellout' To Beall Denied By Rose

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP)—C. Bowie Rose denied Tuesday charges that he sought to set up a "Democrats for Beall" headquarters while serving as co-chairman of the Democratic campaign committee in Anne Arundel County.

Rose's resignation last week created a stir among Maryland politicians of both parties.

Sheriff Joseph W. Alton Jr., Republican leader in the county, said Saturday Rose had solicited funds to set up a headquarters for Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall, who is seeking re-election.

Democratic leaders then said they had forced Rose's resignation from their campaign because he attempted to "sell out" to the enemy. They accused him of meeting with Beall in an attempt to obtain $15,000 for operation of a unit to obtain Democratic support for the Republican senator.

State Sen. Louis N. Phipps, running for re-election in the county, said Rose, his ally in a successful move to overthrow the organization of County Commissioner Ralph L. Lowman in the primary, also intended to oppose Phipps' bid for re-election.

In a long-awaited statement issued Tuesday, Rose denied the "sellout" charge by saying he is a "lifelong Democrat and always will be." He said he had spent the last year and a half working for good government in his county.

Rose blamed the split on what he described as an attempt by Phipps to court Lowman's support in the general election campaign.

Saying he and Phipps had gone on record against "bossism" in the primary fight against the Lowman organization, Rose added: "Sen. Phipps reverted to the very political methods we fought against."

"I pleaded with Sen. Phipps not to put the taint of Lowmanism on our ticket," he said, but "he refused to accept the man-

Army Drops Efforts To Reduce Guard

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The Army announced Tuesday the virtual abandonment of its efforts to cut back the size of the Army National Guard.

Its chief said all 27 existing Guard divisions will be continued, with five battle groups each.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chief of staff, made the announcement in a speech at the National Guard Assn. conference. He noted the plan announced last March to reduce the size of the Guard to 360,000 paid strength would have meant deactivation of six divisions and the elimination of numerous smaller supporting units.

Taylor said the President and the secretary of defense had approved the Guard strength increase to 400,000, demanded by the last session of Congress. As a result, he said, the Army had decided to reorganize all 27 Guard divisions, giving each division five battle groups.

They said 48 persons, including 18 policemen and firemen, were injured.

Student unrest has swelled since President Arturo Frondizi announced he would authorize private institutions to issue professional degrees.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. McKeldin broke ground Tuesday for a new arts building at Morgan State College and told how he feels about men, machines and music.

He warned against a "prolonged jag of inventiveness" during which Americans might "lose the urge to create new music and advance the arts."

McKeldin was certain "we will launch no rocket to the moon" from the "laboratory of the arts" started Tuesday.

Arundel Seeks
More Revenue

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Boosts in Anne Arundel County's amusement tax and in the price of building and bingo permits are being recommended to help finance the proposed 1959 budget, County Manager Edward Loneragan said Tuesday.

He said without these increases the $18,660,000 budget would up the property tax rate three cents. The proposed budget is two million dollars higher than the current one.

The county commissioners must act finally on the budget by Nov. 1.

Loneragan said one recommendation is an increase in the present 1.5 per cent amusements tax to 2 per cent. The tax affects movies, beaches, slot machines and other amusements.

Building permits now cost a maximum of $50. Loneragan has proposed a sliding scale of charges with a maximum of $500 for buildings valued at a million dollars or more.

The top charge for bingo permits is $2,000 for a hall with 1,000 or more seats. Loneragan said he would recommend doubling this fee.

The present tax rate ranges from around $1.90 to $1.99.

Pasture Lands
Benefit By Rain

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Last week's general rains were beneficial to pastures in most of Maryland and Delaware.

The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service, in its last report of the season, said soil moisture at week's end was mostly normal.

Washington County apple growers expect to begin picking Staymans, Romes and Yorks this week. Maryland's harvest of Grimes and Jonathan varieties is about finished and picking of Red Delicious is well advanced.

Besides apple picking, the service said farmers had a good week for fall plowing, hay making, seeding small grains and filling silos.

"Some early beans were shedding," it said, "but growers are apprehensive regarding possible frost damage to some of the late plantings."

Antique Show Opens

BALTIMORE (AP) — Antique dealers from more than a dozen states had items on display Tuesday as the tenth annual Greater Baltimore Antiques Show got under way at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

The show is sponsored by the Council of Women's Auxiliaries of the Maryland State Mental Hospital.

The show concludes next Saturday.

Kennedy To Address
Demos In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), frequently mentioned as a presidential hopeful, will address a Democratic meeting in Baltimore Oct. 9.

Democratic organizations in Baltimore City's Third Legislative District will be hosts for the 8 p.m. in a Baltimore hotel.

Also to speak at the meeting are Maryland's statewide Democratic candidates in the November election—J. Millard Tawes, for governor; Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, for U.S. Senate; Louis L. Goldstein, comptroller, and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, running for reelection.

Escaped Steer
Leads Cops Chase

BALTIMORE (AP) — A steer, bound for the stockyards Tuesday decided he wanted none of it and bulled his way out of a truck.

With the cops in pursuit, the shorthorn caused numerous traffic jams in Southwest Baltimore.

At one point, a motorist let go with a blast of his horn and the startled bull let go with a blast of his rear legs and smashed in the front of the car.

At a park the animal scattered a group of children and then quietly began munching the grass.

He finally was captured after an hour-and-a-half chase when police cars boxed him in at a bank parking lot.

Girl, 21, Chooses
Love To Money

BALTIMORE (AP)—"I'd rather have happiness than any money in the world," said Shirley Klein, as she made final plans for her Saturday wedding.

The choice arose when the 21-year-old secretary learned she would have to give up $2,500 — judgment in an accident case — unless she waited several months to marry James A. Halloran, 24, of Woodbury, N.J.

"It was an easy decision," she told newsmen. "I'm going through with the marriage."

Miss Klein and Halloran were driving through West Virginia last May when they were involved in accident that injured Miss Klein. She filed a civil action against him and won a $2,500 verdict—to come from the insurance company, not Halloran's pocket.

The two became engaged to marry after the suit was filed.

The barb in cupid's arrow was a West Virginia law that a woman who obtains a judgment against her husband-to-be, and marries him before an appeal can be taken, forfeits any contest of the case.

Youth Is Burned In Home Accident

A Fort Hill High School student was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday after being badly burned at his home.

Hospital attaches said the youth, William Spence, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spence, Bowman's Addition, is in "good" condition.

The youth sustained burns about the neck, chest, shoulders and arms when he spilled a pan of hot grease on himself.

Members of the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company took the youth to the hospital in their ambulance. They said the youth was preparing his breakfast when the accident occurred.

Lack Of Bill No Excuse For City Taxpayer

Failure to receive a bill does not excuse a city taxpayer from paying interest 60 days after the levy has been set. Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder said yesterday.

Present tax laws make the person owing taxes totally responsible for seeing that his obligation is paid before the deadline, otherwise whatever interest has accrued must be paid, she said.

Mrs. Roeder said she had requested the Tax Department to make every effort to remail all bills not delivered for such reasons as "deceased" or "incorrect address" in time for the taxpayer to take advantage of the saving before interest starts.

To date, 91 bills have been returned out of the 13,200 mailed.

October 18 is the deadline for paying city taxes without interest. After that date, interest in the amount of one-half per cent a month is charged and is retroactive to August 18.

In a brief remark before the Mayor and Council Monday, Mrs. Roeder thanked taxpayers for the quick and generous response to the tax bills. This response, she said, made it possible to continue operations without borrowing $100,000 which she was authorized to do to meet expenses until tax revenues were received.

The fact the city did not have to borrow meant a saving in interest, she said.

Marine Reservists Leave For Training

Two members of the Sixth Infantry Company, United States Marine Corps Reserve, will leave October 3 for six months active duty, according to Capt. Billy C. Menges, commanding officer.

Pvt. Richard P. Rank and Pvt. William C. White are scheduled for 13 weeks of training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C. After recruit training they are to be transferred to Camp Lejeune, N. C., where they will undergo four weeks of individual combat training and eight weeks of advanced combat training.

Pvt. Rank resides with his parents at 321 Independence Street and Pvt. White lives with his parents at RFD 3, Hazen Road. After their six months of active duty, Capt. Menges said, they will return to the local reserve unit.

County Not To Work On Private Roadways

During a discussion yesterday on a number of road complaints, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners was emphatic in stating that in no case will the county enter into the road building business in private developments.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said that persons who buy lots or dwellings in various developments should check to determine if the roadway on which their property is located is a bona fide county road and maintained by the county.

Chester Everline, who owns a large tract in the LaVale area, appeared before the board to see if the county would take into the county system a portion of the Helman Road. He said rights-of-way have been granted and the roadway improved. Everline was informed that the county road supervisor will check to determine if the roadway comes within the specifications and if they are met the road can be submitted to the State Roads Commission for inclusion in the county's system.

W. M. Crabtree wrote the board that county workers have graded the Picardy Road at the bottom of Thomas Hill so that an 18-inch deep section prevents him from getting in or out of his driveway. The matter was referred to Harry Skelly, roads supervisor.

Mrs. Lillie Dowlan, who resides on Oaklawn Avenue in LaVale, appeared before the board to ask for relief from several obstacles she claims have resulted from the county's grading of that thoroughfare in front of her property.

She was informed that the county attorney, Gorman E. Getty, and Skelly would visit the scene and report to the board. Mrs. Dowlan wants steps put into the front of her property and also said the mail box has been placed atop a bank. Skelly said the mail box had to be removed from the roadway so that the trucks and other equipment used in the road work could move freely without damaging the mail container and post.

Long Suggests Old Buildings Be Burned

Street Commissioner John J. Long has suggested a Fire Prevention Week idea to get rid of old buildings in the Oldtown Road-Thomas Street section in the vicinity of the new housing project site.

Long said Monday it might be a good idea to stage a fire demonstration by setting fire to the old buildings. In addition to clearing the area, he said it would also "get rid of rats there."

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said he would see what could be done.

First canal in the United States was built around the falls of the Connecticut River. This was at South Hadley Falls, Mass., in 1733.

Keyser Area Man Injured

Frederick E. Hook, 26, of RD 1, Keyser, was reported "improved" yesterday at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser where he was admitted Sunday following a one-car accident.

Hospital attaches said the victim was in "critical" condition when admitted.

State Police Trooper Charles C. Oliver said Hook was driving towards Keyser when he lost control of his vehicle about two miles from the city limits.

The car swerved to the right, plunged off the highway and crashed into a large tree. Trooper Oliver said the man's head was badly battered, bruised and cut. The car was demolished.

The same spot on the highway was the scene of a three-car crash later in the day as curious motorists slowed and stopped when they saw Trooper Oliver continuing his investigation of the Hook wreck.

Helen A. Kalzo, 22, Westernport, was driving towards Keyser followed by John T. McGoye, 29, Piedmont, and Willis E. Powell, 66, Elkins.

Miss Kalzo slowed her vehicle to view the wreck. McGoye crashed into the rear of her car, and Powell, in turn crashed into the rear of McGoye's car. Damage to the three vehicles was estimated at $1,200.

Railway Takes Ruling Of PSC To High Court

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Western Maryland applied to the Counsel for the Western Maryland PSC for authority to discontinue passenger service on the trains, an order which has kept it from going out of the passenger business entirely.

The Supreme Court heard opposing attorneys' views on whether the court should consider Western Maryland's appeal from a July 28 Public Service Commission order.

The case involves mixed passenger and freight trains Nos. 153 and 154, operated over the 47-mile route between Elkins and Durbin, in Pocahontas County. Previously, the trains were operated one each way daily except Sunday.

Optimist Clubs To Tour Plant

The Optimist Clubs of Cumberland and Bedford Road will tour the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant at North Branch this evening.

Members of the clubs will hold a dinner meeting at 6:15 p. m. at the North Branch Fire Hall and then will be taken on a tour of the plant. Robert Esler and George Fey are in charge of the arrangements.

After a hearing, the PSC authorized discontinuance of Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday passenger service, but required that it be continued on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

A vice president of the railroad testified before the PSC that the main freight traffic on the trains is coal, interchanged with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway at Durbin. He said the C. & O. operates a local freight into Durbin on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and that it is only necessary for Western Maryland to run into Durbin those three days to take care of the freight arriving by the C. & O.

Operation of the trains the other three days of the week, he said, was due solely to the necessity for maintaining the passenger schedule.

Commissioner T. D. Kauffelt Jr., filed with the Supreme Court a statement of the PSC's reasons for its order. He said it was the belief of the PSC that "the overwhelming portion of the expense complained of by the petitioner (Western Maryland) could be eliminated by the provision for operating the trains only on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, on which days the trains would continue operating even if the authority sought was granted."

He said the PSC believed "there was a public need for this service in the remote area of West Virginia that is served by the trains."

Grafton Firm Low On Thruway Job

Low among seven bidders was the Tinney Drilling Company, with a figure of $4,268. The contract will include test drilling at eight sites.

Bids for the drilling were opened yesterday by the State Roads Commission.

Newspaper Week • And Free Press

National Newspaper Week, October 1-8, is an opportune time for the nation's press to rededicate itself to the eternal vigilance needed in any free society. It is not enough to remind oneself of the national heritage or that the Bill of Rights specifically reserves the right of free speech as a prerequisite for continued freedom.

Nor is it sufficient to point out that the founding fathers built into the Constitution every safeguard possible to prevent corrupt men from changing it into a worthless piece of paper. What is worthy of mention is that every free society before this one began its decline with a dissipation of free speech and a free press.

As long as the press remains adamant in its demand that the rights of the individual be protected against those who cite "changing times" as authority for creeping restrictions, this nation will remain free.

With the growth of government—all levels of government—there is a corresponding growth both in pressures to abandon guaranteed freedoms for the expediencies of the moment and the number of people who are susceptible to temptations. Once these freedoms are forsaken, however, they are never regained. Preventing these invasions is one of the prime responsibilities of the nation's newspapers.

Oppressive governments and tyrannical rulers understandably fear a free press, because it is the one instrument through which the public is informed of the wrongdoings of its servants and the rallying point from which those who have proved themselves unfit for public office can be removed.

National Newspaper Week, then, is more than an opportunity for the Fourth Estate to snap its galluses, prop its feet on the desk and exhort readers on the importance of newspapers. It is a time for American newspapers to rededicate themselves to the principles which have made it possible for this Republic, although somewhat dented, to withstand the test of human frailties.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Private Life Of A Hood

We are sending men and supplies to the Far East. Our Marines have been stationed in Lebanon. Our President rejects a letter from Khrushchev. The whole world is worried about war. So "The Saturday Evening Post" publishes the life story of Mickey Cohen and entitles it "The Private Life of a Hood."

What the story brings out is that while Cohen lives in wealth and luxury and carries about a wad of money, he owes the government of the United States about $512,000 in back income taxes and the government cannot collect.

According to the article, Mickey Cohen has no visible means of support, nevertheless there are a number of Mickey Cohen enterprises. Mickey Cohen only went to prison once and it was for an income tax violation. "The Saturday Evening Post" article quotes him as saying:

"... 'They shouldn't do it.' ... 'I done a lot of things, but I never cheated on no tax.'"

According to the same source, Mickey Cohen takes in from $150,000 to $200,000 a year and is spending it but he pays no income tax at all. He says that it is all loans and gifts which is very good if you can get it. I know that the Internal Revenue Service goes over my accounts each year and disallows this and that deduction and comes up with a bill for more dough. Frankly I am envious of one who can live in luxury on loans and gifts and who does not have to pay any income tax.

Mickey Cohen's comment on the subject is quite correct. He says:

"... 'Internal Revenue is making us a nation of cheats. Always snooping. You can't expect Mickey Cohen to go around like a three-dollar-a-day bum. Why should I give them what little money I have when they'll only throw it away on some foreign country?'"

Yeah! But what about the rest of us who do pay our taxes? Why are we also not immune from the rapacity of the Internal Revenue Service? Or what about the honest merchants who put their money in numbered accounts in Switzerland, Panama or Venezuela, or even Monte Carlo, but pay no income taxes anywhere? Or what about the withholding tax on dividends which each broker should withhold on foreign-held securities to protect our revenues? Who gets that money?

Mickey Cohen is a guy who gets away with not paying taxes while the rest of us do pay. He thus becomes a symbol of an important political and social movement in the United States, namely, that citizens are asking why they should pay income taxes while others do not pay and that Congress ought to investigate this entire question.

For instance, here is the caption of a picture in "The Saturday Evening Post":

"The notorious Mickey Cohen (above, in front of the flashy apartment house in which he lives) with his $15,000 Cadillac. He owes the government about $512,000 in back taxes, but says he can't pay."

Well, that is a cold statement of fact, just as this is a cold statement of fact:

"... He is taking in from $150,000 to $200,000 a year and spending it, but because the money is obtained by an ingenious Mickey Cohen invention—a pyramid of loans and gifts—he pays no income tax at all."

Now, $150,000 to $200,000 a year is a lot of money and who is it that lends and gives gifts to that amount each year? Great charities, such as the Cancer Drive or the Heart Fund have to work unbelievably hard to collect that much money, even though giving to them is deductible. But here is a man who performs no ostensible useful service to mankind, who can borrow or receive gifts to the amount of $150,000 or $200,000 a year and make it stick so that he pays no income tax.

Such free loaders are in a class apart. They are the privileged few. They are the elite. They can keep their money and set up estates for their children. They can save each year and make investments. They do not fear that just as they are about to start on some enterprise, the Internal Revenue Univac will discover that they earned 69 cents more than was accounted for and that that puts them in higher brackets.

'But Grandma, It's Only Little Red Riding Hood'

Quemoy: Impressions Of Embattled Island

By Joseph Alsop

QUEMOY
The cliffs of Quemoy seem to be formed of alternating layers of palest pearl and deepest coral. Under the bright early sun, the embattled beach would be the pride of any sea resort. In truth, the worst-damaged building on the island, the hospital, was built on the beach with the idea of peacetime conversion to a resort hotel.

The rule is that you run across the beach from the old C-46 transport to the sheltering caves in the cliffs. But this time, there is no shelling. (The methodical Communists seem to be accustomed to no more than one arriving plane daily; and they had done their shelling, very thoroughly indeed, for the plane that arrived a little earlier.) So the runners slow to a fast walk before the cliffs are reached.

Behind the cliffs, there is a moon landscape of bare and eroded gullies and draws; and here the battalions have dug themselves and their guns and all their weapons dumps and living facilities right into the cliffside. Any enemy who gained the grimly enfiladed beaches would find a worse hell awaiting him behind the cliffs.

The weapons carrier climbs the gully-side, along a sandy road that has been cut down eight feet into the earth; and at last it comes up onto the center of the island. Northwards is the tumble of dark purplish stony hills, where the Chinese high command occupies a central redoubt cut deep in living rock. Southwards is Quemoy Town, which must have been a pretty little place, full of its own little local bustle and life, before the unending shelling marred the gracefully curved tiled roofs, closed most of the shops and all but emptied the streets.

The Quemoy landscape is doubly strange to those who know China. On the one hand, U. S. aid counterpoint funds have been used to plant innumerable trees on Quemoy. The graceful cedars, with their long, dark, frond-like needles, oddly transform this morsel of Chinese countryside into an Italian countryside. And while this new feature has been added, on the other hand, an invariable feature of every Chinese countryside has been subtracted by the Communist artillery. There are no peasants tilling the little fields, behind the tall windbreaks of silver-plumed esparto grass.

Wherever you go on the island, the shelling is a background noise. Even on a quiet day, it is always going on, with one of Quemoy's guns very occasionally barking its answer to the heavy crump of the enemy shells. It must be pretty bad on the little islands, Erh Tan, Ta Tan, and little Quemoy, which have been the targets of half the huge total of rounds fired by the enemy.

But big Quemoy is as large an island as Hong Kong. The Communist artillerymen are singularly inefficient. They have been using air burst and super-quick-fused shells, which do very little damage unless you happen to be in the immediate neighborhood or unless they hit a fairly fragile structure like a Chinese peasant's house. So Quemoy looks a bit pocked here and there, but Que-moey does not look and has not been really badly hurt, even by more than 150,000 rounds of enemy fire. As it is a big place, and the chance of being in the immediate neighborhood of any incoming round are trifling, the slow crump-crump of enemy shells almost ceases to be noticeable after a while (unless you hear the shell-whistle, which means they are aiming fairly close).

Besides this slow crumping, the place has its other characteristic sounds and sights. There is the odd sight, for instance, of a school of small amphibious landing craft, looking like a stranded school of porpoises. They wait in a sheltered gully to lumber back across the beach to swim to their mother LST. It will come soon, and a new school of supply-laden small craft will replace these that one sees.

There are the gun positions—every visitor is shown a gun position—with the 155s housed in all but impregnable casemates. The seasoned, efficient gun crews, mostly mainlanders and getting older now, have made

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

You could have knocked us over with the Columbia's boom when de Gaulle and Adenauer shook hands through a picket fence.

The ceremony took place on the Maginot Line which is now a garden wall.

That would make Bismarck, Wilhelm and Foch spin in their immortal rotisseries.

Adenauer kept his hat in his hand but de Gaulle was defenseless. The first note of equality is to march side by side in future parades.

This is the biggest step taken since Grandpoo went off the wharf.

Next step is to follow my advice of 1927. Knock off all the forefingers on the military statues on the Rhine.

Napoleon points at Berlin and Frederick the Great calibrates a querulous digit at Paris. And over in Trafalgar Square Nelson fingers them both.

'Success Story' Of Pennsylvania's Republican Candidate For Governor

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — This begins a month of political debate and controversy on which depends the quality of American democracy. Between now and November 4, the American people have to read about, hear about, sometimes get fooled about the men they will pick to run the nation. On whether they are fooled or educated, whether they see through the campaign talk or understand the straight talk, will depend the honesty of government after election day.

In an effort to penetrate the oratorical facades and the political tinsel, this column will report some of the facts that don't appear on the surface during the election campaign.

Here is one situation affecting the third biggest electoral state in the Union — Pennsylvania — which has elected Republican governors in all except three cases since the Civil War.

In an effort to continue that tradition, the Republican high command this year picked a relatively unknown pretzel manufacturer, Arthur T. McGonigle, in preference to Harold Stassen, hard-working aide to President Eisenhower and negotiator for disarmament. McGonigle was publicized as a self-made, clean-cut businessman who would bring a businesslike government to the state of Pennsylvania. He was promoted as a "sound" man who had come up the hard way, in contrast to Stassen who, though former president of the University of Pennsylvania, was too liberal a Republican.

Success Story
McGonigle is stocky, ruddy, pleasant and personable. He looks successful and he likes to talk about his success story.

"I managed to scrape together $300 and my brother Ray got the same amount," McGonigle said of himself in a highly laudatory article published by the Philadelphia Inquirer September 21 which told how McGonigle got his business start. "And with some very necessary help from a bank," he continued, "we took over."

That, however, was not exactly the circumstance under which the GOP candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania got his start as a prosperous pretzel magnate and head of Bachman Bakeries. Republican leaders who fought Stassen and picked McGonigle have been quaking in their boots lest the true facts leak out. Some of them now wish they'd stuck to Stassen.

It happens that the true facts are a matter of court record and therefore not subject to argument. They show that McGonigle's business start was by no means the American success story, but that pretzel manufacturer McGonigle got so twisted making a success of pretzels that he, his brother and their associates had to cough up $186,500, plus $50,000 in attorney's fees.

The record, in the U. S. District Court for Eastern Pennsylvania, September 29, 1957, shows in brief that the GOP candidate for Governor was appointed as a receiver of Bachman Bakeries to protect the interests of creditors, then turned round and sold the company to himself for almost nothing, then had to pay up for doing this.

Briefly, here is the detailed story which Pennsylvania's anti-Stassen politicians don't want published: McGonigle was appointed March 23, 1936, as receiver for Bachman Bakeries in Reading, a company of which he had been vice president. He was appointed by the Berks County Court on the nomination of Lorraine J. Schumaker who controlled American Cone and Pretzel, one of Bachman's chief creditors.

Eight days later, March 31, McGonigle turned round and sold Bachman's to Herbert Fields, of the Laurel Distributing Co., for only $5,140. The assets had been valued at $91,657.08. Later it was charged that Laurel Distributing was a "fictitious purchaser."

This charge was made — and tacitly admitted — in Federal Court before Judge William H. Kirkpatrick Jr., when A. L. Hall, a shareholder for American Cone and Pretzel, brought suit against McGonigle, his brother, and associates.

As the suit was settled for $186,500, the following colloquy took place in court:

"Counselor, are your clients putting up this $186,500?" asked Milton Selig, representing Integrity Management Co.

"I want to say we are putting up a considerable portion of it," replied John S. Rhoda, attorney for the two McGonigle brothers and their companies, Reading Baking and Pretzel and Bachman Bakeries.

That's the American success story of the candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania.

Putting up a good part of $186,500, plus $50,000 attorney's fees, was good business. For the McGonigles later sold Bachman Bakeries for a reported $3,500,000. It had cost them $5,140 plus $600 for fees and commissions.

Worried Nixon
Friends of Vice President Nixon confide that he is so disturbed over the Democratic trend that he is talking privately about a political divorce from the Eisenhower Administration. He thinks he may have a better chance for the 1960 Presidential race by taking his own stand than running on the Eisenhower record.

Accordingly Nixon will start speaking more for himself and less for the Administration. He will not criticize the Administration but simply offer his own opinions.

Capital News Capsules

Too fast pick-up — Chief Economist Raymond Saulnier has reported to the President that the country is pulling out of the recession almost too rapidly. The recession, he says, did not follow the usual crescent-shaped curve, but first plunged down and is now shooting up.

Dr. Saulnier privately credits the much-abused New Deal with helping pull the country out of the doldrums. New Deal reforms, he told Eisenhower, had kept the country's purchasing power up, but he is now worried that the abrupt rise will cause skyrocketing prices.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

It was a rainy afternoon and we sat at the bar in the living room eating cold broiled chicken and noodle salad and talking railroad stories. The raindrops salomoned down the big picture window like nervous skiers. A strong south wind blew the foamy head off the Shrewsbury River. We knew that we would not get out on the boat, and so we talked.

There was some chocolate layer cake and the ladies argued about why they shouldn't have any, and then they did. My father and my brother John and I stuck to the railroad stories and the women wandered off to talk of hemlines and the inside stories of who was pregnant and who was not, and who was thinking of leaving her husband. And why.

Dad had been a railroad long ago. Johnny had been a station agent at Dunellen on the Jersey Central. My father said that, in any conveyance, most of us are a breath away from death. No one would ever know, he argued, why that train fell through an open drawbridge recently, but he had his own ideas.

The engineer had had a seizure, or fainting spell. The fireman was back in the diesel checking the gauges and the fuel. The train went through two caution signals and a red-on-red. Some say the brakes were applied at the last moment. Dad doesn't believe this. As the lead engine left the rails and fell into 35 feet of water, the coupling broke and the brakes went on automatically.

The two of them discussed the case for a while, and Johnny said that one night in Dunellen he got an order to go out and flag an eastbound fast freight. A bar of pig iron had rolled free, and was hanging off the side. It had torn down all the iron railing at the Plainfield Station and had hit the side of an overpass bridge and sent part of it down into the street.

He had left a customer who wanted a B & O ticket to Baltimore and he couldn't find a lantern. So he hopped the crossing fence and stood on the track, waving a newspaper. The train roared by. The engineer saw Johnny, and waved to him. Johnny crouched, and made a palms-down swing of his hands. This means "Washout ahead." The engineer applied his emergency brakes and the train came to a stop a half mile down the tracks.

Dad said that the narrowest escape he ever had was on a local freight called Number 11. It started off with 35 cars from Jersey City and it stopped every few miles to drop one or two off. My father was a flagman on the Pennsylvania and he could recite all the safety rules without looking at the book.

At 2 a. m. on a winter night, the train pulled up outside CN tower at Rahway. The conductor, Ed Ammerman, wanted to back up off number three track onto number two, then number one, and onto a siding.

"John," he said, "run up to CN tower and find out if the road is clear." My father, then 22, took his lantern and ran. He pulled himself up the iron steps of the tower and told the towerman what Ammerman wanted to do.

The towerman looked at his board. "All four tracks clear," he said. "Tell Ammerman to go ahead." Dad ran back and gave the okay. The lead brakeman was hanging off the front boxcar and he waved his lantern and the train came back slowly, snaking across the tracks as Dad threw the switches by hand. The caboose was on track two moving toward track one when the engineer froze in fright.

Down the main line, towards New Brunswick, he saw a headlight. No train, passenger or freight, was scheduled for this hour. The engineer threw on his emergency and pulled his whistle rapidly in short blasts. The others on the track looked. A locomotive came into view around the bend and it was throwing sparks three stories high as it headed toward New York.

All of them held their breaths. The express whizzed by. It never touched the caboose. Just rocked it a little. The crew began to breathe.

Dad ran back toward CN tower and up the iron stairway. "What's the matter with you?" he roared at the towerman. "You trying to get us all killed?" The towerman's forehead was beaded. He shook his head. "It's a special out of Washington," he said. "I forgot it."

"A special train?" my father said. "How could you forget?" "I don't know," the man whispered. "I just don't know. President Theodore Roosevelt is on it."

Chilly Weather Is Forecast For Today's Series Opener

Ford, Spahn Admit Feel Of Pressure

Sellout Crowd Ready For Game; 50-Degree Temperatures Seen

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves and Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees — the southpaws set to square off in the opening game of the World Series — both admitted Tuesday on the eve of the classic that they had "butterflies".

Neither the lanky Spahn nor Ford, the "iceman" of the Yanks, voiced any concern over the 50-degree temperature predicted when they start the best-of-seven game battle before a sellout crowd at 1 p.m. CST tomorrow but both admitted to the growing feeling of pressure.

"We all get a few butterflies and, while this is my 10th World Series game, I'll be on edge tomorrow until the game gets under way," said Ford, noted for his imperturbability and calmness.

"We're all a little numb until this thing gets going," Spahn added as both teams took a final drill at Milwaukee County Stadium under chill, gray skies.

Spahn, the Braves' 22-game winner who lost last year's opener to Ford before Milwaukee bounced back to win the championship of the baseball world in seven games, said that he anticipated no difficulty on the cool weather.

Typical Weather

"This is typical Milwaukee weather in the early season of late in the year," explained the 37-year-old left-hander who is the only southpaw in baseball history to post nine 20-game seasons.

Ford, who will try to put the Yankees, favored at 13 to 10 in the classic, off winging again, said he prefers cool weather. But he looked wistfully at the 15 to 25 mile per hour winds blowing toward the outfield — the same winds as predicted for the opening game — and sighed:

"I wish that wind was blowing toward the plate — because right now this is a hitters' ball park."

Casey Stengel, the Yankee manager whose teams now have won nine pennants in 10 years and who will be shooting for his seventh World Series championship in that period, visualized the opener — a pick 'em affair — as a pitchers' battle.

"You'll see some real good pitching out there tomorrow," he analyzed as his Yankees took their workout. "That Spahn has to be some man and there isn't anything wrong with my guy."

Will Start Berra

Neither Stengel nor Fred Haney, the Braves' manager, announced a starting lineup. But Stengel said he would start the left-handed hitting Yogi Berra behind the plate instead of the right-handed hitting Elston Howard, who has been hitting better.

"Berra catches Ford all the time," Stengel explained.

This kept alive Berra's skein of starting in a total of 10 series and will boost his record of having caught more series contests than any catcher.

Hank Bauer, who will be seeking to extend his record to 15 consecutive World Series games in which he has hit safely, will lead off for the Yankees and play right field. Following him will be Gil McDougald at second base; Mickey Mantle in centerfield; Howard in left field and batting cleanup; Berra; Moose Skowron at first base; Andy Carey at third; Tony Kubek at shortstop and Ford.

The only Yankee player in the doubtful category was pitcher Bobby Shantz, who sprained a finger on his pitching hand in Sunday's season finale and who is wearing a metal splint on the finger.

Haney was expected to start Felix Mantilla, his all-round utility man, in center field in place of the injured Bill Bruton.

The Braves guess privately that the Milwaukee lineup would be led off by Red Schoendienst at second base; Johnny Logan at short; Eddie Mathews, third base; Hank Aaron, right field; Joe Adcock, first base; Wes Covington, left field; Del Crandall, catching; Mantilla, and Spahn.

Haney might move Mantilla up to bat second and drop Logan to eighth.

Injured Ready

Bruton, nursing a tender knee, insisted that he would be physically ready to play. First Baseman Frank Torre, another on the injury list, said that a sore right hand was "100 per cent when taped," and Covington reported that his bad leg "is okay as long as I don't try to change direction too quickly."

Logan meanwhile came up with a new slant on the series when he asserted that double plays would provide the key to the outcome of the Series.

"We have a definite edge there," he argued. "Our pitchers throw low, sinking stuff. The Yankee pitchers throw high balls. And, as far as Schoendienst not having the old zip, listen, that man was born to make the double plays."

Series interest, at a low ebb in the quiet days since the season's finale Sunday, began to reach a

MOUND OPPONENTS TODAY—Southpaws Whitey Ford, left, of the New York Yankees and Warren Spahn, right, of the Milwaukee Braves drew the pitching assignments for today's opening game of the World Series in Milwaukee. Both admitted yesterday they feel the pressure on the eve of the series. (AP Photofax).

Top 10 Grid Teams Favored This Weekend

Oklahoma Tabbed 21-Point Favorite

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oklahoma, Michigan State and Ohio State — the nation's top-ranked college football teams — are solid choices to whip their Saturday opponents.

The oddsmakers tabbed Oklahoma, which this week took over the No. 1 spot in the United Press International ratings, a 21-point favorite to defeat visiting Oregon Saturday. Michigan State, ranked second, is favored by 13 for its big ten clash with Michigan at East Lansing. Third-ranked Ohio State is a 21-point favorite for its home game with Washington.

Fourth-ranked Auburn is such a prohibitive choice for its game with Chattanooga that the oddsmakers took the game off the boards. Fifth-ranked Army is favored over Penn State by 10 for their eastern feature at West Point, N.Y.

Top 10 Favored

The remaining teams in this week's top 10 also are favored. Sixth-ranked Notre Dame is rated a seven-point choice for its visit to Southern Methodist. Seventh-ranked Wisconsin is "off the board" for its game with Marquette and eighth-ranked Iowa is rated the same for its game with the Air Force academy. Ninth-ranked Pittsburgh is rated seven points over Minnesota and 10th-ranked Mississippi is a prohibitive choice to crush Trinity (Tex.).

In Saturday's nationally televised contest, Washington State is favored over California by seven. Illinois is favored over Duke by five. Purdue over Rice by seven. West Virginia over Indiana by seven. Northwestern over Stanford by 14. Baylor over Miami by one and Texas A&M over Missouri by six in intersectional features.

Are Rated Even

North Carolina State and Virginia are rated even for their Atlantic Coast Conference clash.

Other odds:

Tribe Is After Billy Martin

Lane Seeks Deal With Detroit Club

NEW YORK (UPI) — General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians said today he still is trying to get infielder Billy Martin from the Detroit Tigers but denied a report that he was near to closing the deal.

"I have been trying to get Martin from Detroit since last December," said Lane. "In fact, I tried to get him from Kansas City last year before McHale (General Manager John McHale of Detroit) got him."

"The way the situation stands now is this," Lane said. "McHale has told me he will talk to Norman (Tigers' Manager Bill Norman) during the World Series. If Norman is willing to trade Martin, then we will take trade."

Lane described as "grossly exaggerated" a report in a Cleveland newspaper that he was close to a deal that would bring Martin and Harvey Kuenn to Cleveland in return for Vic Wertz, Larry Narleski, Dick Brown, and Ray Doby. "It's just an off-day story," he said.

Lane said Kuenn's name has not entered into his talks with McHale.

Bass Sets Fast Pace Rushing; May Set Record

Halfback Runs 427 Yards In 2 Games

NEW YORK (AP)—If Richard Lee Bass, College of Pacific's speedy halfback, keeps on running the way he has in his first two games, they'll have to re-write college football records.

The first release of the season from the NCAA Service Bureau for major colleges shows Bass in two games has carried the ball 427 yards in 41 rushes. No player ever opened the season at such a clip, the NCAA observed.

In his opening game Bass romped for 215 yards as COP defeated California 24-20, and last Saturday he rushed 212 yards as his team dominated Arizona State 34-16.

Bass has completed his one pass attempt for 52 yards, but his ground gains put him at the top of the total offense list with 479 yards.

Gail Cogdill, Washington State end, caught seven passes against Northwestern Saturday for an all-time single game record of 252 yards.

The former two-game record for rushing was 399 by Virginia's Johnny Papit in 1949. For pass receiving, the former mark was 306 yards by Joe McCarolan of Drake in 1952.

The leader in pass receiving based on the number caught is Calvin Bird of Kentucky, with 13. Reece Whitely, Virginia co-captain, is leading in passing with 25 completions in 52 tosses for 343 yards. The Virginia quarterback also has rushed 80 yards and is second in total offense with 423 yards.

Bird also is the leading scorer with 32 points, and Cogdill is second with 26.

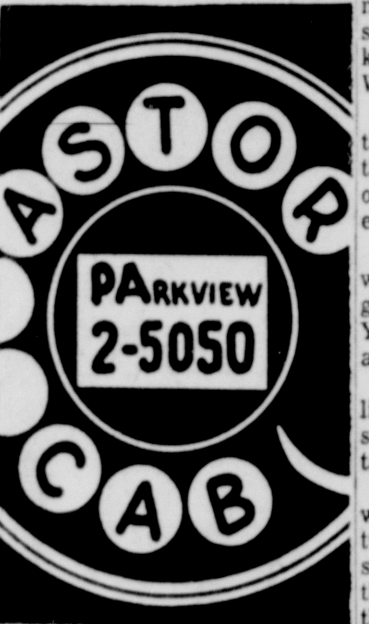

Charles Milstead of Texas A. & M. leads the kickers with an average of 53.8 yards for five punts.

Fans Celebrate In Milwaukee In 46-Degree Weather

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Shivering in 46-degree temperature but irrepressible as ever, Milwaukee baseball fans turned out in force Tuesday night to celebrate the Braves' second straight National League pennant.

They did it with a huge World Series parade down Wisconsin Avenue, the city's main thoroughfare; a ceremony at the Lake Front War Memorial Center at which manager Fred Haney and his wife Florence were presented with a silver loving cup, and, finally, a thunderous display of fireworks.

Police estimated 50,000 persons lined the route of the parade which was headed by Braves players and executives and their families riding in open convertibles. Twenty-one bands, marching teams and drum and bugle corps were in the line of march.

Sports Writers Pick Yankees To Take Series

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The sports writers who cover baseball made the New York Yankees slight favorites over the Milwaukee Braves Tuesday for the 1958 World Series.

A poll of 68 writers had 39 of them picking the Yankees and 29 the Braves, reflecting the series odds of 13-10 with the New Yorkers favored.

If the majority of the baseball writers is correct, the series will go six games. Sixteen chose the Yankees to win in that number, and 15 the Braves.

There were 15 writers who believe the Yankees will win in seven. Ten picked the Braves to take it in seven.

No one predicted the Braves would win in four straight, but two selected the Yankees to do so. There were four who picked the Braves in five, and six who thought the Yankees will wrap it up in five.

Mont To Use Soph Halfbacks

Injuries Force Terp Strategy Changes

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Coach Tommy Mont of Maryland is being shouldered into depending a lot on his sophomore halfbacks sooner than he planned.

Three of them probably will be given a real baptism of fire against undefeated Clemson Saturday. Shoulder separations suffered by two of Maryland's experienced halfbacks, Ted Kershner and John Forbes, in the first two games forced Mont to turn to his sophs.

Dwayne Fletcher, 170-pounder from Front Royal, Va., and John Stitt, 185 from Pittsburgh, Pa. will relieve Junior Gene Verardi at left half.

Bob Gallagher, 180 from Pittsburgh, will lend a hand to Senior Bob Layman at right half.

Coach Mont had anticipated bringing along the soph ball carriers slowly with spot duty.

A rash of shoulder injuries, notably to Kershner and Forbes, changed that idea.

"I hope our backs can take a lot of bruising," he prayed in speaking Tuesday of Saturday's game with tough Clemson. "I'm afraid some of them are going to have to go a long way."

The loss of Forbes, biggest of the Maryland halfbacks at 190, came just as he returned to the excellent running he had shown in spring practice. He scored twice, once on a 71-yard jaunt, in Maryland's rebounding 21-6 victory over North Carolina State last Saturday.

Fletcher was a hot prospect in spring practice, too, but Mont has been cautious about playing him regularly with reservations about his defensive experience. Fletcher came through, however, with a saving tackle early in the N. C. State game.

Maryland is going to have to perform even better than it did last Saturday in order to take Clemson, Mont feels.

"It's going to take a super effort," he says. "I predict it will take three and close to four touchdowns with maybe a field goal to beat Clemson."

Kansas City Buys Bella From Yanks

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics announced Tuesday the purchase of heavy-hitting John (Zeke) Bella from the New York Yankees.

Bella played with the Denver Bears of the American Association the last three years. Until last weekend the Bears and Yankees had a working agreement. Bella, 27, plays first base or in the outfield.

The A's said the purchase completes the deal in which they sold pitcher Murry Dickson to the Yankees on waivers late in August. With Denver Bella hit .339 this season. The amount paid for Bella was not divulged.

Sports Patrol

(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
By STEVE SNIDER
(United Press International)

NEW YORK (UPI)—A king-sized revolution is underway in college football with Army and Oklahoma leading the way.

The new rules are responsible but the controversial two-point conversion isn't even involved.

Another rule governing linemen on forward pass plays is leading to an upheaval that may have even greater effect on college football than the conversion worth two points when achieved by a run or pass.

So far, it has turned usually conservative Army and Oklahoma from grind-'em-down attackers to sheer razzle-dazzlers. And that apparently only is the beginning as the colleges drift more and more to the highly effective pro-style offenses.

Much Passing

Oklahoma set a school passing record with 335 yards overhead against West Virginia. Army, which didn't complete a pass last year in the Navy game, went wild against South Carolina with three of its four regular backs pitching like mad.

The rulesmakers promised "more exciting football for 1958" and pinned their hopes for same on the new two-point conversion. This, alone, was revolution enough.

But a really potent gimmick in the new rules now allows an eligible (to receive a pass) lineman to race downfield as soon as his team throws a pass—instead of when the pass is caught.

It's a rule swiped from the pros and probably will end the old T-formation and split-T among the colleges as quickly as it departed from the pro ranks.

By letting the center, guards and tackles roam downfield as soon as a pass is thrown, the offensive team can line up its blockers far more quickly and effectively around the potential receiver.

Great Changes

Earl Blaik of Army and Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma apparently made greater changes in their attacks to capitalize on the rule than did most other coaches perhaps because they were among the most conservative in the past.

"The new offense gives our backs more room to move around," said Blaik. "And it's not as punishing physically."

In the Army's offense, one end is placed so wide he never gets back into the huddle, receiving his signals visually from the quarterback. It spells the end of eight-man defensive lines jamming up the middle.

Oklahoma doesn't go that far but uses flankers, laterals and plenty of forwards in contrast to its old ball-controlling split-T with the optional pass-run play that mostly was a run.

Pittsburgh, one of the year's early surprises, is playing it with more wide-open stuff than usual. Michigan State has dropped some added more and no longer calls its attack "the multiple offense" but a "variable offense."

And this is only the beginning.

Archery Contest Planned Sunday

State Purchases Land For Shooting

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—The state has purchased 2,500 acres of mostly marshland near the Blackwater Wildlife Refuge on the lower Eastern Shore for use as a public shooting area.

Director Ernest Vaughn of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission would not disclose the purchase price. It was bought from County Commissioner M. Baker Robbins and his brother, Henry D. Robbins.

Part of the money was put up by the Federal government.

The area, in Dorchester County about 25 miles south of Cambridge, will be opened on the first day of the waterfowl shooting season in early November. No special permits will be needed.

Scalpers Asking $180 For Tickets

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Scalpers' prices for World Series tickets were reported to be between $140 and $180 Tuesday for a single set of grandstand seats worth $28.

The advice came from businessmen under heavy pressure from clients.

"These prices are murder," a manufacturer said. "But I know that I have to get six strips before Wednesday morning or else."

And this is only the beginning.

Stokes Still Is Helpless

NBA Cager Now Ill For Past 200 Days

CINCINNATI (AP)—Wednesday will be the 200th day that Maurice Stokes, one of the National Basketball Association's finest rebounders, has lain helpless in a hospital bed.

When, if ever, he'll be able to lead a normal life still isn't known.

Stokes was stricken with a form of encephalitis (sleeping sickness), as he and other members of the Cincinnati Royals of the NBA were en route to Cincinnati last March 15.

Physicians have said that he might have suffocated except for the quick work of an airline stewardess who quickly gave him oxygen.

Then he was rushed to a hospital in nearby Covington, Ky. He later was moved to Cincinnati's Christ Hospital.

For a time he was in a coma. Then he became alert but still unable to move or speak.

Now there is slight movement of his arms and legs but he still has no power of speech.

The cost of the hospital treatment has mounted to a great figure.

The Royals and three other NBA clubs will participate in a double header basketball game Oct. 21 with all receipts to go to Stokes. Cincinnati will play the Detroit Pistons in one game. In the other the World Champion St. Louis Hawks will meet the Boston Celtics.

Top Golf Rookie

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bob Goalby, 27-year-old former quarterback at the University of Illinois, Tuesday was named "Golf Rookie of 1958" by Golf Digest magazine. Goalby won one tournament and was in the top five in three others to earn more than $10,000 in his first year on the tour.

Calumet Farm's Fabius Scores First Victory

Romos Home Easily At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 30 (AP)—Calumet Farm's Fabius scored his first victory of the season at the Atlantic City race course this afternoon, finishing a length and a half before Castle Rock Farm's Sarno. Amico, from the Liz-Tree Stable, ran third, with D. G. Neuman's Native Son in fourth place.

This was the 12th start of the season for Fabius who raced to day coupled with the filly, Keeneland Lady, who went under the wire in sixth position. Chris Rogers rode Fabius.

The Calumet entry paid surprisingly well, $5.00, $3.00 and $2.80. Sarno returned $9.60 and $5.60 with a $3.00 payoff posted on Amico.

The early pace in today's feature was set by Mare's Beau. Fabius was off on his toes and Rogers rated him close up but did not attempt to send him to the front. At the head of the stretch the rider issued his command and Fabius was off to the races. Fabius' time over the seven furlongs was 1:21.4.

Sarno was moved into contention from his inside position down the backstretch, gave way momentarily rounding the far turn, and then closed with good speed in the stretch run.

Amico raced in third place most of the journey and held Native Son safe in the final stages.

Tournament Held

Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie and Mrs. G. L. Spoerl won the ladies best nine golf tournament yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club. Both shot net 33's over the course. There were 24 entries in the tournament.

Regulus I Fired From Cruiser Lands On Target

BRUNSWICK, Maine (AP)—The Navy successfully fired a Regulus I guided missile from a cruiser 50 miles off Boston Monday to its target, the Brunswick Naval Air Station, some 100 miles away.

The missile was fired from the USS Macon and was guided by jet planes to the air station, where it made a perfect landing.

The Navy termed the firing a complete success.

A spokesman said the missile shot was a first for this section of the country although similar firings—from sea to shore—have been made successfully elsewhere.

The Regulus I, now outdated by the Regulus II, is a surface-to-surface missile resembling a conventional jet fighter plane. Its range is about 500 miles and it moves at a speed in excess of 735 miles an hour.

The missile is designed for use against land based targets but it also can be used against ships.

AFRICAN VOLCANOS ERUPT

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)—Two volcanoes erupted in the Belgian Congo near the Uganda border, according to travelers returning from the area. They said the newest one erupted near the Congo town of Goma and there were fears the lava would block the Rutchuru River and cause floods.

Card of Thanks

I take this means to thank my relatives, neighbors and friends for their kindness extended to me during my recent bereavement, the death of my beloved sister, Lucy Mae Lowery. I also want to thank Mr. Lee Silcox for his kindness, Rev. Jacob H. Snyder and Rev. Louis L. Emerick, who officiated the funeral, the pallbearers, who sent flowers and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

A. A. LOWERY

To my many friends, neighbors and relatives who have not personally thanked me, I take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation for their many kindnesses shown us during the funeral and bereavement, the death of my husband and our beloved father, William B. McConnell. To those who gave their services, donated cars for the funeral, the pallbearers, and to those who in any manner rendered their services, we are deeply grateful.

Mrs. Sue McConnell, wife and family, Mrs. Frances Ann, Phyllis and William T. McConnell.

Stock Market Continues Surge To Historic Highs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brighter gains running past 4 points. The economic skies and a number of right near the close as profit-taking sent the stock market to a new high in more than two years on Wednesday. The session was one of the most active of the year.

The stock market finished the month of September on a burst of activity that had the high-speed reporting tickers late for a short spell near the close. This was the most active September since 1929.

The market's sharp advance added another 900 million dollars to stock values and brought the total for this year to more than $46,700,000,000.

The steel, drugs, rail, tobacco and selected issues featured on the upside, with individual down 2 1/2 and Warner 3 1/2.

Russell Appold, 32, Father Of Seven

Russell William Appold, 32, of Magnolia, W. Va., father of seven children, was killed early yesterday morning when he was struck by a westbound B&O freight train near Paw Paw.

Ironically, the engineer of the train was Louis W. Robertson, 320 Grand Avenue, an uncle of the victim.

Dr. Sam I. Nickols, coroner of Morgan County, ruled the death accidental.

Sheriff William Clark of Morgan County, who investigated said the accident occurred at 12:55 a. m., about one and a half miles east of Paw Paw.

Unable To Stop

He said the engineer noticed Mr. Appold sitting on the track but was unable to stop the train before he struck the man. Three Diesel units and several cars were reported to have run over the victim.

It was not ascertained why Mr. Appold was sitting on the track.

The accident occurred at Concrete Wall west of Kessler's Curve as the train headed west on the "high line." There were 117 empty coal hoppers on the train. It was traveling from Hagerstown toward Keyser, according to Russell Rankin, 721 Hill Top Drive, conductor on the Diesel No. 4011.

He said the train was traveling about 38 miles an hour at the time of the accident. Conductor Rankin said it was dark at the time and the accident happened on a curve.

Two County Seniors Are Semifinalists In National Merit Scholarship Contest

Will Compete With 10,000 In Nation

Two high school seniors from Allegany County are among 136 Marylanders who are still in the running for at least 735 National Merit Scholarship Corporation scholarships for 1959.

They are William Karl Van Newkirk, son of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Van Newkirk, 25 Park Avenue, Frostburg, and Henry (Johnny) Johnson III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Johnson Jr., Baltimore Pike.

Young Van Newkirk is a senior at Beall High School in Frostburg and Johnson is a senior at Fort Hill High School. The Frostburg father teaches psychology at Frostburg State Teachers College and young Johnson's mother teaches distributive education at Allegany High School. During his sophomore year, he transferred to Fort Hill from East Mecklenburg High School, Charlotte, N. C. His father came here from Charlotte as safety supervisor for Celanese.

The two Allegany County boys are among 10,000 who are semifinalists in the 1958-59 competition of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The 10,000 brainy youngsters outscored 479,000 other students in the qualifying test given in over 14,000 high schools last April 29. The group of semifinalists composed of the highest scorers in each state, prorated according to state population.

Semifinalists now face another rigorous three-hour examination, the scholastic aptitude test of the College Entrance Examination Board. This test will be given in testing centers throughout the United States on December 6. Those who repeat their high scores on this second test will become finalists in the competition.

About May 1, at least 735 fortunate young people will be named Merit Scholars of 1959.

All finalists will receive certificates of merit attesting to their high ability. All colleges and universities will be notified, thereby enabling the students to be considered for a wide range of other scholarships.

The merit scholarship program is now in its fourth year. It was founded in 1955 with grants of $20 million from the Ford Foundation and $500 thousand from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Sponsors thus far have awarded $12 million worth of scholarships and have pledged an additional $4.5 million. Over 2,300 of the nation's most able students are now holding merit scholarships at some 325 colleges.

Only other Western Marylanders in the semifinals are Darlene DeHart, North Hagerstown High School, and Donald Miller, Middletown High School in Frederick County. Other Maryland cities and towns represented include Baltimore, 41; Bethesda, 25; Silver Spring, 17; Rockville, eight; McDonough, six; Garrett Park, four; Catonsville, Hyattsville, Oxon Hill, Wheaton, and Towson, three each; Beltsville, two; Annapolis, Bel Air, Bladensburg, Brandywine, Centreville, Denton, Elkton, Ellicott City, Gaithersburg, Poolesville, Sandy Spring, Stevenson, Thurmont and Westminster, one each.

Four Held For Court

Four persons charged in the safe burglary and theft at Mason's Snack Bar on Baltimore Pike last month, yesterday were ordered held for action of the October term of the grand jury.

The group was given a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate Court before Magistrate Morris Baron who set bond at $1,000 each for action of the grand jury. Committed to Allegany County Jail in default of bond were Florence Elita Edwards, 20, and Carole Virginia Heaver, 16, both Glen Burnie, and Harry William Martin, 24, and Charles Howard Brown, 21, both of Baltimore.

The two couples were returned to Cumberland last week from Ohio, where they were arrested during an apparent breaking and entering.

The group was connected to the theft at Mason's and were returned here by local authorities. They were charged with the theft of $186.76 from the snack bar.

Lawyers Club To Honor Republican Candidates

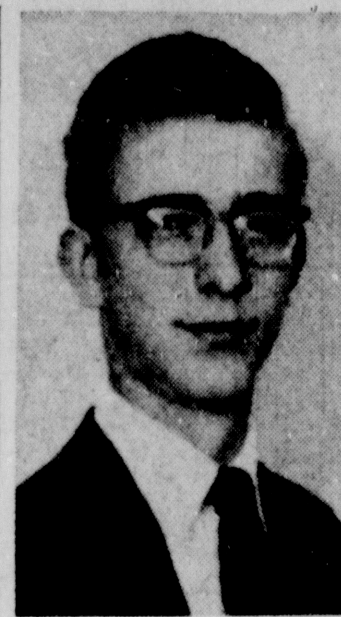

A large delegation of Republicans from Allegany County will attend a luncheon Friday in Frederick to honor the Republican candidates for state-wide offices in the election next month.

The luncheon is being sponsored by the Republican Lawyers Club of Maryland and will be held at noon at the Francis Scott Key Hotel.

Guest speakers will be Senator J. Glenn Beall, Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde, James P. S. Devereux, candidate for governor; Robert A. Wallace, for attorney general, and John A. Derr, for comptroller. Local candidates of Frederick County also will be introduced at the meeting.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason, Republican campaign manager for Allegany County, has been elected as director to represent Western Maryland in the Republican Lawyers Club of Maryland.

Mr. Mason said the luncheon will be open to the public, and will not be restricted to lawyers. Anyone from this area interested in attending the event may contact the Republican campaign headquarters or Mr. Mason at his office in the County Building on Union Street.

Buses Being Used To Bring First Class Mail To City

Buses are giving Uncle Sam a helping hand in speedier delivery of first class mail between Cumberland and Baltimore and other eastern cities.

Thomas F. Conlon, local postmaster, said yesterday the additional mail service became effective recently.

It was inaugurated by the Distribution and Traffic Manager of the Post Office Department in Washington, D. C.

Postmaster Conlon said that mail-carrying Greyhound buses arrive in Cumberland at 12:35 a. m. daily except Monday, at 4:45 a. m. and 11:05 a. m. daily except Sunday.

First class mail is dispatched from here to Hagerstown and Baltimore on the bus which leaves at 8:40 p. m. daily except Sunday.

Mail arriving here at 11:05 a. m. gets to Cumberland about two hours before a 1 p. m. mail train on the B&O. That bus brings mail into Cumberland which is sent from New York and Philadelphia making bus connections in Baltimore.

Mr. Conlon said the 11:05 a. m. bus usually carries about eight pouches of first class mail, but the other buses carry less mail.

He said mail received on the 4:45 a. m. bus is delivered in Cumberland the same day. The new setup is more advantageous to business places of Cumberland and the system is working out very well, he said.

The bus mail is carried on regular passenger runs and is service additional to the present railroad mail shipments.

Bus Terminal Opens Today At New Location

The new Greyhound bus terminal will open today at 12 Valley Street and will be used, for the present, by the Greyhound and Osgood lines.

Police Chief R. E. Flynn said yesterday he had been informed the Peoples Transit Line of Frostburg and the Mt. Savage bus lines will continue, for the present, to operate from the old location at 139 North Mechanic Street.

Bus stops to be made by the buses within the city limits were still uncertain yesterday.

Chief Flynn said there will be no change at present in the Peoples and Mt. Savage bus line stops.

A conference is planned this morning with officials of the Osgood line to reach a decision on stops buses will make.

All four lines have been using terminal quarters on North Mechanic Street which are being razed.

Ticket and package facilities of the Greyhound and Osgood lines will be available this morning at the new terminal.

Dental School Dean To Speak Here Twice

Dr. Kenneth V. Randolph, dean of the Dental School at West Virginia University, will fill two speaking engagements here today and tomorrow.

Tonight at 6:30 o'clock he will be the principal speaker at the first fall meeting of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society at the Cumberland Country Club.

Dr. John Gorman is president of the society.

Tomorrow at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m., Dr. Randolph will discuss the new medical center at West Virginia University which now includes a four-year Medical School as well as a four-year Dental School.

Before going to West Virginia University in the summer of 1957, Dr. Randolph was director of the operative clinic of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, Dental School, University of Maryland.

His first position at West Virginia was as assistant dean and director of the operative clinic. He became dean June 30 upon the retirement of Dr. J. Ben Robinson.

Says He Didn't Realize Effects

By The Associated Press

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said Tuesday night that when he urged Sen. J. Glenn Beall to vote for tidelands oil legislation he had no idea the oil and gas interests were sending or intended to send Beall "large chunks of money."

"The truth is that I was the victim of false propaganda spread by Sen. Beall's friends among the oil and gas interests," said D'Alesandro in a statement issued by his Democratic senatorial campaign headquarters.

The statement was the latest in the exchange between the Democratic candidate and the Republican candidate for re-election over what has grown into a major issue in their campaign.

Beall, who had earlier defended his vote on the tidelands oil legislation by saying he felt states were entitled to natural resources under their marginal seas, announced last week that D'Alesandro had urged him to vote for it. He produced copies of a letter D'Alesandro had written him on the subject in 1952, when Beall was a member of the House.

Beall Hits Hells Canyon

In a new statement Tuesday, Beall said D'Alesandro "wanted Maryland taxpayers to contribute almost 10 million dollars toward a federal power project in the West which would have drawn industry away from Maryland itself." He said he referred to D'Alesandro's advocacy of the Hells Canyon Dam.

The new round of attacks and counterattacks came from the Baltimore headquarters of the candidates as they stumped in the counties — D'Alesandro in Harford County with his running mates, and Beall in Anne Arundel.

Acknowledging he asked Beall to support the tidelands oil bill in 1952, D'Alesandro said he did so because he had been informed the legislation would "remove a cloud" about Baltimore's ownership of its harbor.

"The point is that Sen. Beall was given many thousands of dollars to finance his political campaigns," said D'Alesandro, "and that the record shows that he voted to serve the interests of his out-of-state benefactors and against the interests of the people of Maryland."

Says He Was 'Misled'

He and other mayors and governors who backed the legislation, said the Baltimore chief executive, were "misled" by statements issued by the oil and gas interests.

"We were not told that the federal government had waived any right it might have had in submerged land in bays, harbors and other such bodies of water, and we were not informed that the federal government had introduced legislation in Congress expressly vesting title to the cities and states (of non-ocean coastal lands)," he said.

"We did not know that Sen. Beall's millionaire and multi-millionaire friends had enough influence with Congress to keep that bill in committee, so that they could continue to mislead the public and misrepresent the facts."

"The main point, however," D'Alesandro added, "is not that I was misled in 1952, but that Sen. Beall then and thereafter, in the House and in the Senate, voted to help the oil and gas interests at the expense of the people of Maryland; and also that these same interests have given him large sums of money to finance his political campaigns."

"The tidelands legislation developed into the biggest give-away in the country's history, and some of those who profited have shown their appreciation by helping to finance Sen. Beall."

"The question for the voters of Maryland to decide in the coming election," the Democratic candidate added, "is whether they want a senator to represent them or whether they want the senator to represent the millionaire and multi-millionaire oil and gas interests who have no particular connection with Maryland."

Cites Baltimore Tax

Beall's statement tied in, with defense of his vote against the Hells Canyon federal power project, an attack on what he called D'Alesandro's "anti-industry tax" in the city.

The Republican senator said D'Alesandro was among those who believe "the already overburdened taxpayers of the nation should pick up the half-billion-dollar tab for the (dam) project, with Marylanders paying out $9,837,210."

Beall said he felt "our government is already in competition with too many businesses and consequently, that private industry should do the job."

"Fortunately for Maryland," he said, "the bill died in the Congress, and the development of the Hells Canyon project is now in the hands of private enterprise."

FRED B. DRISCOLL
Republican

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll will seek his third term in the House of Delegates under the Republican banner in the November 4 election.

He placed second among the 16 Republican candidates who competed for six Delegate positions in the May 20 primary election. He has served two terms in the General Assembly, has been a member of the Legislative Council and an active member of the famed Motor Vehicle committee of the council.

He was born in Roanoke, Va., and moved here when he was nine years old. He has owned and operated a barber shop at 107 South Johnson Street for the past 30 years.

He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Driscoll, who lived at 651 Baker Street. His father was a well known B & O conductor.

He is a member of the Cumberland Optimist Club, is an active Mason and a member of Cumberland Lodge No. 281, Loyal Order of Moose.

A former member of the Allegany County State Central Committee, he was chief clerk of the Board of Election Supervisors from 1935 to 1939.

He is married to the former Mrs. Ethel Adams. They make their home at 719 East Oldtown Road here.

Delegate Driscoll states that every effort must be made to prevent discrimination against people being given a job because of their age when they are otherwise qualified. At present, he said, when a person of 40 or 45 years of age becomes unemployed it is almost impossible to find work that will enable him to support his family. Del. Driscoll is at present having the director of the Department of Legislative Reference, Dr. Carl N. Everstine, draft preliminary legislation to help correct this condition.

He also advocates a more equitable distribution of gasoline taxes. At present, the State Roads Commission receives 50 per cent of the taxes collected from this source; the City of Baltimore receives 30 per cent, leaving only 20 per cent to be divided among the 23 counties.

The rebuilding of Route 36 from Westernport to Frostburg and a new Wiley Ford bridge in South Cumberland should be given a high priority and work started on these projects just as soon as possible, he said.

The continued expansion of Frostburg State Teachers College will, as in the past, continue to be given every support, Del. Driscoll promised.

Carpenters To Back Officers

The Maryland State Carpenters Council will support administrative officers in the quadrennial convention which opens November 10 in St. Louis, according to F. Patrick Allender, president.

He said Cumberland Local 1024 and eight other locals attending a council session here voted to endorse Maurice A. Hutcheson, president, and members of his administration for re-election at the convention.

Delegates, he said, will go instructed to re-elect the present administration.

The Maryland Council also endorsed and instructed delegates to back legislation which will be introduced to increase retirement benefits.

Band Will Practice

The Cumberland Municipal Concert Band will begin fall practice today at 8 p. m. in Fort Hill High School.

Mother, Son Are Hurt As Cars Collide

Auto Is Upset In Accident

A local mother and her infant son escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon in a spectacular two-car collision in South Cumberland.

Mrs. Clementine Rapson, of 351 1/2 Bedford Street, driver of one of the cars, was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment of an injured hand. Her son, about seven months old, was reported to have sustained a scratch on his cheek. The mother was X-rayed, attaches said.

The accident occurred about 3 p. m. at the intersection of Race and Fourth streets.

City police, who are continuing an investigation, said a car driven by Martin J. Mullaney, 208 Washington Street, was traveling west on Fourth Street, when it collided with the car being driven north on Race Street by Mrs. Rapson.

The Rapson car, which was demolished, spun around after the impact, turned over on its top and traveled some distance along the street.

Firemen from South End station rushed to the scene shortly after the accident and were there about 40 minutes to wash away gasoline which leaked from the Rapson car to the street.

The left front fender and bumper of the Mullaney car was damaged.

Officers Ernest Powell and Roy Hawse are investigating.
